NOTES FROM THE BOARD

For personal reasons, Bill Maxwell has resigned as President of the Players, as of June 30. Cheri Fletcher was named by the board to replace him. Susan Tucker is to be vice president of production, and Jill Henderson will join the board. All positions will be in place until the Annual Meeting in March.

David Atwood will be subscription and box office manager.

We now have a new and safer table saw in the shop. Allen Bantly, Jim Miller, and Dick Chick are shown below, installing the new saw.

Someone is needed to take charge of the winter welcome program.

What should be the focus of the play selection committee for the upcoming season, 2009–2010? Send your suggestions to Marcia Marlow at mmarlow6104@gmail.com or Tom Sullivan at merlin_v12@comcast.net

Hay Fever Coming This Fall!

As noted in the July Newsletter, auditions for HAY FEVER will be held on August 23, 2008, from 4:00–7:30 p.m. and on August 24, 2008, from 2:00–5:00 p.m., with callbacks on August 24, 2008, from 6:00–9:00 p.m. All auditions will be held at 51 Walden Street, Concord, MA.

HAY FEVER, by Noel Coward, will be the first show of 2008–2009, our 89th season. It will be directed by Mickey Coburn. Production dates are November 7, 8, 14, 15, 16 (matinee), 21 and 22.

In this delicious comedy, each member of the eccentric Bliss family—a retired actress, her novelist husband, and their two grown children—invites a guest to their country home, without informing each other. The innocent visitors arrive expecting a romantic weekend, and step into a whirlwind of confusion, chaos and comic mayhem.
